Art Unit: 1761

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35USC 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains to make and/or use the invention.

The claims recite the phrase "main soluble material" which is also used in the specification. This is presumably the main component of the stick. However, the specification is silent as to what this material is.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by the Philadelphia Inquirer (6/25/96, p.Do1) or Rocky Mountain News (1/2/91, p.3F) or Pittsburgh Post – Gazette (4/3/94, p. G7) or St Petersburg Times (12/12/91, p. 9D) or Commercial Appeal (1/31/96, p.C1) or Capital Times (12/18/91, p.1C) or Record (Northern N.J., 1/23/91., 1/23/91, p. do1) or Baltimore Morning Sun (12/6/95, p.1G) or State (Columbia, 1/12/2000, p. D1.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Philadelphia Inquirer as further evidenced by Rocky Mountain News, Pittsburgh Post Gazette, St. Petersburg Times, Commercial Appeal, Capital Times, Record, Baltimore Morning Sun and State, further in view of Kinagawa (Jp 60-9500), Arbib (Fr 2644679), Parent et al (Fr 434,110), Kuhn (426,506), White (GB 368890), White (GB 370,006), and Laskey (1,566,329).

Philadelphia Inquirer, as further evidenced by the secondary art, clearly and unequivocally teach that soluble flavored, stir sticks or sticks capable of being used as a stirrer, are notoriously old in the art. As the art taken as a whole clearly teaches, edible, soluble sticks made of Cinnamon and peppermint are well known for their ability to be used as stirrers in edible beverages. Claims 3-12 differ from Philadelphia Inquirer, as further evidenced by the secondary art in the recitation that the undisclosed "main soluble material" encapsulates one or more additives which additives can be whitener and sweetener. As evidenced by Kinugawa, Arbib, Parent et al, Kuhn, the two White references and Laskey, it is also well established to provide foods and even materials that are common constituents of drinks and candy in composite form wherein one material encapsulates another. To modify Philadelphia Inquirer, as further evidenced by the secondary art, and provide composite products and the particular composite materials for their art recognized and applicants intended function would therefore have been obvious.

The remainder of the references cited on the USPTO 892 form are cited as art of interest.
